

Celebrate Each Day with Italian Sweets and Dessert Wines

Just in time for the Easter holiday, Dolce Italia has launched the first official Italian Web site in the U.S. dedicated to authentic Italian sweets and dessert wines, www.dolceitalia.com. Save room for dessert!

The Web site is the latest effort of the Italian Confectioners Association, with the collaboration of Buonitalia SpA, to bring Italy's exceptional confectionary and chocolate-making traditions to American consumers. The aim of Dolce Italia is to preserve centuries-old Italian recipe creations as well as present Italy's famed after-dinner spirits, which carry a meal to its final course.

With so many imitation products on the market that hint at Italian origins but do not adhere to Italy's strict quality standards, how can you be certain your product is truly "Made in Italy?" Before you go shopping, visit www.dolceitalia.com and review the list of producers, including Amarelli, Bauli, Corsini, Falanga, Leone, Motta, Perugia, Vanini, Venchi, Vicenzi, Asti, Aversa, Bertagnolli and Caffo.

On Dolce Italia's Web site for spring, you'll find recipes for Colomba, Chocolate Truffles with a Hint of Violet and a decadent Baci Pie. WICC members are invited to join Dolce Italia's "Sweets Newsletter" to stay up-to-date on tastings and special events in your area.

Live La Dolce Vita!
